

STATEMENT ON EUROPEAN UNION DIRECTIVES CONCERNING RESTRICTION OF HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCES (RoHS)

Vulcan Threaded Products, Inc. (Vulcan Steel Products) is not directly regulated under RoHS for its domestic shipments of steel products but understands that its customers may benefit from having this information. The information provided below is based on commercially reasonable efforts and applies to substances included as of the Policy date listed below. Concentration levels are based upon the total weight of the steel products at the time they ship from Vulcan.

Directive 2011/65/EU (RoHS Recast or RoHS 2) and Delegated Directive (EU) 2015/863 (RoHS 3) restrict the use of ten substances in the manufacture of various types of electrical and electronic equipment at maximum concentration values by weight (lead – 0.1%; mercury – 0.1%; cadmium – 0.01%; hexavalent chromium – 0.1%; polybrominated biphenyls (PBB) – 0.1%; polybrominated diphenyl ethers (PBDE) – 0.1%; bis(2-ethylhexyl) phthalate (DEHP) – 0.1%; butyl benzyl phthalate (BBP) – 0.1%; dibutyl phthalate (DBP) – 0.1%; and diisobutyl phthalate (DIBP) – 0.1%).

To the best of Vulcan's belief and based upon information currently available, steel products as shipped from Vulcan's facility do not contain any of the ten substances above the relevant concentration threshold or beyond the relevant scope of restriction, except for the following products which are specially formulated to meet customer specifications:

- Vulcan's 12L14 grade steel contains 0.15 – 0.35% lead (customer can evaluate any applicable RoHS exemptions for steel with lead content above 0.1%).
- Vulcan's ASTM A193 - B7 all thread rod that is cadmium plated with a hexavalent chromium passivation layer (homogenous material concentration levels have not been calculated).

This information is provided to and may be relied upon only by the party who purchased the products directly from Vulcan. If you have any further questions regarding the products produced by Vulcan, please contact the sales representative assigned to your account. We appreciate and value your business.
